Ride Manager of the Year

This year, a particular Ride Manager Couple accomplished several amazing things! Bo and Linda Parrish put on a ride where they had to literally tow in every vehicle to be parked and tow out a fair number of vehicles — about 10 inches of rain fell for 2 days before the ride. Bo and Linda debated seriously about canceling the ride, but decided not to, mostly due to encouragement from endurance riders. They had to completely reroute a large portion of trail, including a 100-mile trail! Their other absolutely amazing accomplishment that weekend was the 25th anniversary of the Armadillo Ride

Volunteer of the Year

Paulette Brehob and Peter Ansorge—did the lion's share of the work for the 2006 AERC Convention in San Antonio. They did an amazing job! Thank you, Paulette and Peter for all of your hard work!!

Horse and Rider of the Year

Our Horse and Rider of the Year is Rroco-My-Soul and Mike Maul!! Mike and Rroc had a great year! In the 2006 ride year, they completed 21 of 22 rides, and on the ride they didn't complete—Rroc had fallen and skinned his leg—that was what resulted in the pull. Anyway, they rode 1080 miles in 2006, 605 of them TERA miles. Also, at the Lone Star ride this Thanksgiving, Rroc went over 5000 miles! 5085 is what his AERC record shows—and all but about 800 of those are with Mike!! Congratulations to Mike and Rroc—our Horse and Rider of the Year!!

Congratulations to all!

Ride What You've Got!

By Kim Reeves

Although the majority of the horses ridden in endurance are Arabians, other breeds can do it, too! Riders who choose to ride the "off breeds" just need to realize they probably won't out run the Arabians, but they can be competitive by accumulating the miles.

These riders will have to work harder at the vet checks to get the heat out and to get the pulse down and will need to use a different strategy during the ride. This might require slowing down sooner before arriving at the vet checks, pulling tack and figuring out what your horse likes that will make him drop his pulse. A good crew at the vet checks will help you get the horse down to criteria faster and back on trail within the hold times. These two points are important when you ride at a slower pace. Otherwise, you might risk riding over time.

Criteria seems to be set up for Arabians, who naturally have a lower working pulse rate. When criteria is set low to prevent them from racing, it hurts the heavy muscled horses that have higher working pulse rates. A properly conditioned Quarter horse will pre-vet in at the same pulse rate as the Arabians. But once these heavier muscled horses start moving they don't come back down as quickly. Expect to pulse in at whatever the criteria limit is. If criteria is 15 and your horse has a CRI of 15/15, you are doing great. New vets tend to worry that something is wrong when the "off breeds" pulse is higher than Arabians. Don't worry about the 8 and 9s that the Arabians come in at.

Heavier muscled horses tend to require more electrolytes that contain higher calcium rates. This aids in getting them through the vet checks and the ride in better shape. These horses also tend to do better in cold weather than the Arabians. They don't really need rump rugs. On the other hand, Arabians do better at the hot rides.

Some veterinarians will think something is wrong when the slow, easy going horse is not trotting out with fire in his stride or if they have a different way of traveling. Gail Conway would always say to the vet as he trotted his Foxtrotter out, "This is a Foxtrotter. This is a Foxtrotter." This is why it is often hard to compete for Best Condition against the Arabians, just go for the high vet scores. (If an off-breed is in the top ten, it is usually because the Arabians ahead of him have been pulled for lameness or metabolic problems, or there were only ten horses that started the ride!)

Look at the records of high mileage horses. You will see that a lot of these are not Arabians and are ridden by conservative riders. Examples are: Don Funk's mustang Geronimo, John Parkes' Icelandic, Remington, Sue Phillips' Quarter Horses, and Mike Jaffe's mule, Coyote, to name a few. There have been non-Arabians that have done well at the Tevis ride. The "off breeds" are not restricted to limited distance because of their size and muscling. It seems that the riders of "off breed" endurance horses go with the theory of hauling just one horse to rides, be it one day rides or multi-day rides, and riding conservatively and working hard at making sure their horse successfully completes each ride.

You don't have to go out and buy an Arabian to start riding endurance. Begin by riding whatever breed you have, then later you can decide if you want to change. Riding an Arabian is definitely easier from a criteria standpoint and usually faster on a flat ride, but other breeds can be competitive on a mileage basis and sometimes excel on rough terrain rides. Just ride with the intent to finish and you and your non-Arab horse will have a successful endurance career.

Raven will provide ride managers $100 per day for each TERA-sponsored ride ($200 for two-day rides, etc.) to help with ride expenses. Ross would like to see more ride managers make their rides TERA rides. He hopes that Raven's sponsorship will help ride managers with their rides. Thanks, Ross!

Newcomer's Meeting

And don't forget that at each TERA ride there is a special meeting for "newbies". Presented by a member of the Board of Directors, this informative session is held on Friday evening. There should be signs posted giving the time and location. If not, be sure to ask the ride manager.

So, if you see someone wandering around looking lost when you get to a ride, send them to the Newcomer's Meeting! You might even want to come along yourself ... even, though (since you're reading this) you couldn't possibly be a newcomer yourself! You never know what you might learn!
